Democracy?

• "WHY SHOULD I vote in these college elections anyway? They're nothing but political stamping grounds for a few interested kids and their cohorts."

This question and its corollary comment are ones which every student has a right to have answered. No one, least of all the editors of The Hatchet, is capable of answering this question to the satisfaction of every student. However, anyone who believes in democracy on the campuses of America can present a sound argument in its support. That democracy should and must prevail in this country's institutions of higher learning, we believe to be beyond question.

But what about the charge that college elections are merely "political stamping grounds?" A quick glance at the biographical sketches of members of Congress shows that a great majority of the nation's legislative leaders were politically active in their college life. This very fact demonstrates the benefits that both individuals and the country receive from the political activities of these leaders in college life.

Even if the charge that college elections are nothing more than an experimental proving grounds for a few individuals were admitted, no one should claim that this situation is not subject to control. For the very base of a democracy lies in the fact that those persons who are elected are responsible to the electorate. The entire history of not only city machines, but college ones, shows that wherever a political machine has gained control, one of the primary reasons has been due to the complacency of the electorate. Simple arithmetic and common sense are sufficient to prove that the chances of any machine are greater when only 25%, or even 50%, of the electorate goes to the polls.

In the last election held at the University less than 20% of the students exercised their democratic duty and privilege to vote for the candidates of their choice. This seems to us to be even more deplorable when it is remembered that the voter doesn't have to travel to the polls but finds them practically under his nose and open from morning to night to accommodate every student.

We have said that voting in the elections Thursday and Friday is a "democratic duty and privilege."

WHY? Simply because, on the campuses of America as well as nationally, the principles of democratic capitalism cannot stand up to the threats of totalitarianism except through positive actions, which strengthen and improve democracy. Democracy, like everything, is subject to changes in its structure. We believe that it is flexible enough to move with these changes. However, we also believe that no matter how good the structure of democracy may be that it cannot live unless its basic building blocks—you and we—form a substantial foundation. Here at the University this foundation has been shaky to say the least. Did you ever hear of a building resting on a 20% of a foundation? . . . Neither did we!

There you have it. You have a duty to perform—vote and vote for the candidate of your choice. It will be impossible to have true student representation unless that other 80% goes to the polls. STUDENTS, wake up! This year don't be a "statistic" on the wrong side of the fence.

Note To Faculty

Dear Sirs:

All members of the G. W. Faculty will, upon application, have The Hatchet mailed to them. Inadvertently this category was absent from the card mailed to all current subscribers recently. If you received a mailing-list card please forward it to The Hatchet office, after correcting the address and noting your faculty status.

Sincerely,

THE BUSINESS MANAGER

Open Letter . . .

To the Student Body:

Students at George Washington University have the opportunity to exercise their democratic privilege November 6 and 7 by going to the polls and voting for their class officers.

This announcement has become a bit frayed at the edges, I know. It is issued with the realization that this opportunity may go unheeded by the large majority of the student body. Such a realization should be a challenge to all of us, because we have a voice, and if that voice is not heard we are subject to all the unhealthy conditions which result from stagnation.

The candidates for class offices this year are serious in their intent to do a good job. Their platforms give promise that they as class officers will truly act for the benefit of the students, and the University. They deserve your support and vote.

We can make this the healthiest election that G. W. U. has ever known. Student government at G. W. U. needs a boost. We can and should "Vote 5000." It's up to you.

Attention Please

By ALLAN EZRINE

• WHAT HAS previously been confined within the sports pages of this publication, namely, the subject of the University football team, has now broadened in scope to assume a position of paramount importance. In fact, the entire problem of University athletic participation is one which now merits the attention of every student and alumnus.

Vanquished last Friday night in the annual homecoming contest and defeated this year in six consecutive games, the team, as the representative of the school, has become the center of continued humiliation by the city newspapers. Various local papers have carried feature stories, in a manner unfriendly to the University, describing interviews between prospective athletes and the coaching staff, claiming to be baffled by the official administrative attitude toward athletics, and finally, purporting to be certain of the impending resignation of Coach Stahley. And, thus far, there has been not one word or one instance of action which would constitute a refutation on the part of the University.

The sting of these accusations is increased when one attempts to compare them with the attitude of the team itself. Though being defeated by a substantial margin, late in the last quarter, Coach Stahley's charges nevertheless managed to display a heart-warming degree of spirit in losing to VPI. Certainly, we need not be ashamed of the spirit of the team, or of the manner in which it conducted itself.

Yet, despite the obvious dearth of available material, and despite the lack of adequate facilities for fielding a representative team, and despite the lack of cooperation on the part of the administration, the Athletic Department has, according to available reports, decided on an infinitely more difficult schedule for next year's team. The paradox is ridiculous to behold. For, if what seems evident is indeed truth, Mr. Farrington had decided that VPI, though emerging victorious, 42-6, is not "worthy" of being a George Washington University opponent in 1948.

It appears at this time as though the University will have to decide on one of two paths to follow. Either the administration provides adequate facilities for fielding a team, and encourages athletics on a broad basis, or the only recourse for the Athletic Department is to schedule teams in the category of Rider, Wagner, Canisius, or Mary Washington.

INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE BUREAU

Anna-Maria Braun

(13b) Munchen 15, Lindwurmstrasse 126/A

Germany, Bavaria, US Zone

15/8/47

Dear Sir or Madam:

After having established an INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE BUREAU, I, on behalf of members on my waiting list, take leave to apply to you. May I request you to put me in touch with readers of your paper interested in friendly correspondence?

Having been secluded from the outside world these long years, and yearning for a real democratic enlightenment and a personal contact from man to man across the borders, my members would only too gladly welcome and answer letters from abroad. Most of my members (among them scientists, students, experts, businessmen, and other well-educated ladies and gentlemen, and also hobbyists, housewives and even young boys and girls) have a fairly good knowledge of English, but would also be pleased to write in German, if desired. I am sure my members will try and give their pen-friends every satisfaction.

Individuals and groups of persons may communicate with me direct stating their particulars and interests. All letters will be attended to and all applications linked up. If possible, two or three reply coupons should be enclosed to cover expenses, and also to save time—an introductory letter to future pen-friends over here will be appreciated.

Pen-friendships are a step towards the creation of that international friendship and good will that is so essential to understanding and peace, don't you think so?

Yours hopefully,
(Signed) A. M. BRAUN.

(Miss) Anna-Maria Braun

P.S. Restrictions do not allow me to make remittances from this country. So what can I send you in return for your kindness to have this letter published? Please, let me know!

Acting Class Hears Critic On New Play

MISS ROSAMOND GILDER, editor of THEATER ARTS magazine, addressed members of the acting class last Monday.

Miss Gilder, who was in Washington on business in her capacity as a member of the board of directors of the American National Theater Academy, spoke to the group regarding Robinson Jeffers' translation of the Greek tragedy "Medea."

The play, one of the first of its type to be produced in this country, opened recently in New York and has received enthusiastic notices from most of that city's critics. "Medea" stars Judith Anderson and John Gielud, who is also the play's director.

"American audiences have accepted the idea of a chorus in musical productions but have never approved of speaking choruses which are the basis of Greek plays," said Miss Gilder.

"The Greek works balance a chorus against the emotions of a single person or idea—in this case, Medea, who personifies Evil," she continued.

Miss Gilder stated that the play left the audience with the feeling that Evil had stalked across the earth and that they wanted no more to do with it.

"One of the interesting points of the play from an actor's view," she said, "was the manner in which Miss Anderson varied the intensity of emotion which ran through the entire play and the way that Mr. Gielud held himself off from the audience to further direct their attention toward the character portrayed by Miss Anderson."

On her first visit to the University, Miss Gilder was very favorably impressed with the school and especially with the magnificently equipped Lisner Auditorium.

Several Prominent Authorities Asked To Choose Topics

ACCORDING TO the program committee of the Current Affairs Club, forum discussion meetings this year will be supplemented by several series of one-speaker talks by prominent authorities.

Each series will be limited to a specific topic to be discussed at three consecutive meetings. "Economic Aid to Europe" will be the subject of the first three-meeting series to be conducted during November.

At the suggestion of the program committee, Harold L. Ickes, Mrs. Chase Goring Woodhouse, George Kennan, and Walter Lippman are among those being invited to express their attitude toward this subject before the club.

Speakers will be selected solely on the basis of their knowledge of the particular subject. Sydney Shapiro, president of the club, says that this will minimize the partisan nature and lack of objectivity sometimes evident in a panel discussion.

Individuals invited to speak are being given the opportunity to select their subject, and will be invited on the basis of its appropriateness to the series of talks planned.

Musical-Minded Symphony Club Refugees Seek New Home To Hang Their Albums

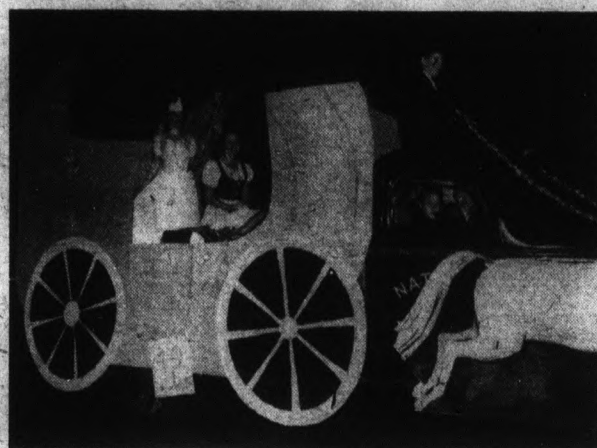

By MARI AMBAM

FALL IS the season for migrations. The birds do it, the bees do it, and Nature's call has at last reached the ear of our student body.

You may have noticed some of the wayfarers trekking here and there about campus—Bohemian-looking creatures clutching record albums and with a vision of the Promised Land dancing before their eyes. Well, if so, think nothing of it. It is only the Symphony Club looking for a winter home.

Party? Vet's Club? Fri. Night? Thank Those Coke Machines

By IZZY ISAACS

PARTIES? Listen, Jean; you never saw a party like the one the Draper Hall boys threw Friday night. It was the loveliest little brawl you ever saw!

Seems the boys had a few bucks left in their treasury—those coke machines are really a profitable source of income—so they held a big meeting to decide what to do with the proceeds.

There was a prolonged discussion, which boiled down to three ways of disposing of the extra dough. One guy wanted to buy curtains. One guy held out for a towel rack, and the other 123 said they wanted to throw a beer party. Democracy in action! It was decided!

Doug Evans, Bill Jeter, and Harry Lamar chairmaned the whole deal, and those Draper Hallites who came out alive thank the above mentioned gentlemen for arranging the party of the year.

The great-souled leadership of the Vet's Club volunteered the use of their clubhouse, Evans was sent downtown to shop for the basic ingredients, and Jeter was appointed to see that the stuff was up to par. It was.

Attendance was limited to residents of Draper Hall, each of whom was allowed to bring one guest. No one brought his brother. As I dimly recall the whole deal, the Vet's Club was invaded by a flock of hours from Paradise, starting right after the game, and continuing on . . . and on . . . and on.

The boys had to swallow a bitter pill, watching that game with V. P. I. They wanted to forget, and quick! Draper Hall's party Friday night was one of the greatest demonstrations of forgetting troubles of all time.

Pepsi-Cola Board Offers Fellowships

TWENTY-SIX NEW graduate fellowships, each of which will pay full tuition and $750 a year for three years, are being offered to college seniors this year for the first time by the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship Board.

Any college student who will receive a bachelor's degree during the school year 1947-48 from a college or university in the United States may apply for one of the new fellowships, according to an announcement made by John M. Stalnaker, professor of psychology at Stanford University and director of the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship program.

Winners will be selected on the basis of their promise of outstanding achievement in later life as evidenced by their undergraduate records and recommendations as to character, personality, and qualities of leadership, the announcement states, and the fellowships will be limited to those students who have financial need.

The fellowships may be used at any accredited graduate or professional school in the United States or Canada and in any field of study which will lead to an APPROXIMATELY 3000 students and alumni danced the 1947 Homecoming weekend to a successful close on Saturday night at the D. C. National Guard Armory. The bands of Claude Thornhill and Jack Morton supplied the music.

The overhead lighting was melowed with the use of colored cellophane, and much of the decoration was focused on the bandstand. Behind the orchestra were the letters "G.W.U." on a black velvet drop.

At the intermission, Fremont Jewell, Student Council president, acted as master-of-ceremonies to announce the names of persons recently elected to Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary fraternity.

Following this announcement, four black limosines entered the hall carrying the sixteen Homecoming Queen candidates. Morton's band struck up the "Coronation March" as each one was introduced and escorted to the platform.

Mr. Robert Viano, associate editor of PIC magazine, announced the two finalists, Louise Whiting and Janet Allison, and the winner, Mrs. Lynn Post, who was then crowned Homecoming Queen by Fremont Jewell.

Following the coronation, candidates for Omicron Delta Kappa, National Honorary Activities Fraternity, were tapped and introduced.

At 11:30, radio station WOL broadcast directly from the Armory carrying a half hour of Thornhill music. The Homecoming Ball ended shortly after 1 a.m.

The Homecoming proceedings started off with a pep rally Thursday night led by Tom Pence and the cheerleaders. The University Band, directed by Leon Brusiloff, assisted in the rally by playing numerous pep tunes.

Friday night, before the V. P. I. game, a float parade proceeded from the University area to Griffith Stadium. A reviewing stand was erected on the line-of-march between Columbian House and Corcoran Hall where the floats passed (See HOMECOMING, Page 7)

Actors Complete Auditions For Play Set For December

WITH THE completion of almost 100 individual auditions, rehearsals for the University Players' first production, "The Fan" by Carlo Goldoni, have swung into action at Lisner Auditorium, according to Edward P. Mangum, director of the 18th century comedy.

"In the four days of auditioning," said Mr. Mangum, "an excellent show of talent has been evident." He added that cast announcements will be made next week.

Dr. Natalie E. White is assisting Mr. Mangum on interpretation, voice-training, and understudy coaching. Work on set designs has been started by Jane Summers, head of that department and president of University Players, and Robert Stevens, assistant on set designs. Publicity manager Orel Leonard is working with his assistants Gerry Leiblick, Bob Coleman, John Burke, and Sara Ford Dallmeyer.

Harry Raker, business manager of the organization, has announced that tickets will go on sale two weeks before the opening date, December 12.

Under the direction of Dick Moines, distribution manager, the set-up for mailing lists is being organized.

Vets Club Needs Volunteer Tutors

THE INCREASED NUMBER of students taking advantage of the Vet's Club tutoring service has made an appeal for more volunteer tutors in all university courses. The greatest number of people want help in Spanish I.

A regular meeting of the Vet's Club is scheduled for Wednesday November 12 at 8:30 p.m. in Government 101. Veterans interested in joining the club are invited to attend.

The Symphony Club is the only organization of its kind on campus. Founded several years ago, it is devoted to the appreciation and enjoyment of classical music. Its activities include listening to records, musical discussions, and the attending of concerts in the city. President Donna Hill plans to organize the Club shortly for the coming year and hopes are high for a new home.

so smoothly. A shelf for every album, a needle for every groove, security, peace, a place to call their own. But such happiness was to be shortlived. The tranquil walls of that little room in Lisner were fated to contain other sounds than the voice of music.

And so, one day, the little group was told that it must go. Leaving its sanctuary, now but a common classroom, the exodus began. And so we see them today, shabbier perhaps beneath the falling leaves but with a symphony in their hearts.

Commanding Officers Arrive at University

COMMANDING OFFICERS from fifty U. S. Navy service schools in the East arrived at the University yesterday for the opening of a course in school administration given by the staff of the School of Education. Dean James Harold Fox has been named administrator of the program, and Dr. Charles Edward Bish, associate professor of education at the University is the conference director.

The course will consist of a five-day series of conferences held at the George Washington University followed by a twenty-week correspondence course at the conclusion of which the Naval officers will return to the University for the final series of conferences early next April.

Similar courses will be conducted by The University School of Education staff at Great Lakes Naval Training Center at Chicago in December and at the San Diego Naval Training Center in January, to accommodate officer conferences from Navy service schools in those areas.

The textbook for the course was prepared by Dean Fox, Dr. Bish, and Mr. Ralph Ruffner, graduate student, and is based on lectures given by Dean Fox and Dr. Bish in previous courses in School Administration.

Fifty additional Naval officers, assistants to the commanding officers of the service schools, will receive a similar course at the University beginning November 10. They will meet for their final conferences during the last two weeks of next April.

Commander Howard O. Johnson, former high school principal and now attached to the Navy Bureau of Personnel, has been named coordinator for the program to act as liaison officer between the Navy and the University.

Dean Fox is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario and received his Doctorate in Education from Harvard University. He has been Dean of the University School of Education for ten years.

Dr. Bish is a former patent lawyer and was assistant principal of Roosevelt High School in Washington. During the war he was training officer in charge of two sections for the Adjutant General's office in Washington.

Mr. Ruffner, a doctoral candidate at the George Washington University, was special services officer with Patton's Third Army, operating hotels and night clubs in Paris during his tour of duty.

Barbara Hanby, president, gave the plans of the chapter for this year, and introduced the other members each of whom gave short talks on this year's activities at the University.

Sue Berger told of the establishing of Tassels, the Sophomore honorary; Nancy Hanck gave the latest news on the Dance Production Groups; Joy Saalfrank spoke on publications; Mary Alice Novinger related the Pan Hellenic progress; and Janet Doidge spoke on women's athletics.

Some of the alumnae present were Elsie Carper, now a reporter for the Washington Post, and Gertrude McNabb and Dorothy Snyder, both presently teaching at District schools; the former at Langley Junior High School and the latter at McKinley Technical High School.

Sororities May Rush Girls Now

INFORMAL RUSHING, which began October 22, and which continues until February, is the period of rushing in which free association between sorority girls and rushees is allowed. This is for on- and off-campus contacts with one regulation—all get-togethers must remain "dutch-treats."

Each sorority has been allowed one big party with the maximum cost not to exceed ten dollars. All those who signed the list in Miss Kirkbride's office for informal rushing may go to any of these parties, regardless of the fact that they might not have been contacted personally.

All of the sororities have had their one large party, and the continuance of informal rushing will exist only in the form of going to the various sorority rooms for lunch.

No rushee will receive a bid to join a sorority before the beginning of the third week of informal rushing.

Masons To Meet Wednesday Night

THE UNIVERSITY Masonic Club, Number 232, will have a meeting in Room C of Columbian House, tomorrow night at 8 p.m. All Masons may attend.

Bacteriologist To Discuss Tuberculosis

UNDER THE auspices of the Sigma Xi, National Lectureship, Dr. Rene J. Dubos, bacteriologist at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, will lecture to the public on the "White Plague" tonight at 8:30 p.m., in Government 101.

Selected by the National Office of Sigma Xi, honorary society for recognition of achievement in the sciences, Dr. Dubos is appearing under the sponsorship of the University chapter of Sigma Xi.

Dr. Dubos has made his chief contribution to the control of tuberculosis in the development of a new culture medium which speeds growth of the tubercle bacillus and eases handling in research and diagnosis.

Formerly George Fabyan professor of Comparative Pathology and Tropical Medicine at Harvard Medical School, Dr. Dubos was born in France, is a naturalized citizen, and was educated at Rutgers University, Rochester University, and Harvard.

Recipient of the John Memorial from the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Dubos is considered one of the most brilliant bacteriologists in America.

Tuberculosis diagnosis and research has been retarded in the past because of slow growth of the tubercle bacillus. The form in which it grew resulted in difficult handling for those persons engaged in tuberculosis control.

Club Makes Plans For Coming Year

THE GERMAN Club plans a series of colorful events for the college year. A weiner roast in November, a Christmas play contest, a movie, German folk dancing, a singing festival and picnic will fill out the social program. A speaker from the German Embassy will be featured in March, provided that the embassy is operative at that time.

Officers elected for this year are: Kathy Osann, president; Ann Simms, vice-president; Frank Elliott, secretary; Herbert Schwartz, treasurer; and Paul Gekker, musician. Dr. Gretchen L. Rogers is faculty advisor.

German students interested in broadening their conversational German and in learning more about German culture should contact Kathy Osann, Strong Hall, Metropolitan 5322.

THIS IS HOW they do it at the Bradley University, Peoria, Illinois:

He worked and slaved each night 'till three,
And all he got was a lowly "C".
She sat at bridge throughout the day
Winked at the Prof.—and got an "A".
(Wonder if it will work here??)

FROM WISCONSIN we got this one:

The preacher of a Negro church was asked to resign and his parting speech was as follows: "Ah wants yo' all to know that ah accepts de resignashon and that there is no hard feelings on mah part. But ah wants each and every one of yo' to pay special attention to de mistletoe pinned to mah coattail as ah passes down de aisle."

FOR YOU MORE intellectual souls, here's one concerning foreign affairs from Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pennsylvania. "Eyes are on independent India these days. If magicians Ghandi and Nehru succeed in changing enmity into amity over there it might conceivably turn the Moslem population into a bunch of night-owls. Can't you just picture a poker-playing Moslem gent coming home in the wee hours and explaining to the little woman. 'I've been sitting up with a Sikh friend'?"

MARRIAGE, as defined at Bucknell University, that which changes from an alluring possibility into a lifetime liability.

HEARD AROUND the American University campus is this bit of witticism:

"Is my face dirty or is it my imagination?"
"Your face is clean: I don't know about your imagination."

IT TOOK place at Long Island University.

Mr. Abbott, taking the role call in his class, repeatedly called one student's name. Knowing the old trick which exists of answering for another student who is absent, he looked bewilderedly at his pupils, and remarked: "Doesn't Mister Smith have one friend in this class?"

You can tell a king by the crown on his head,
You can tell a monk by his hood,
You can tell a babe to keep her mouth shut
But it won't do a darn bit of good.

A WOMAN approached the pearly gates and spoke to St. Peter. "Do you know if my husband is here? His name is Smith."

"Lady, we have lots of them here. You'll have to be more specific."

"Joe Smith."

"Lotsa those, too; you'll have to have more identification."

"Well, he said that if I was ever untrue to him, he would turn over in his grave."

"Oh, you mean 'Pinwheel Smith'."

This was stolen out of The Albrightian.

LESSONS ARE given at Rider College in Trenton, New Jersey, on how to write home to dad for that ever-lovin' moola. Here's how:

Incorrect: Dear Dad,
May I have ten dollars? We are having a prom.

Correct: Dear Dad,
The lab fee for the chemistry course is ten dollars.

WHAT NEXT? It isn't enough for the skirts to get longer, but they have to get the whiskers longer, too. At least that's what is happening at the Rensselaer Polytechnic in Troy, New York, where they are having a beard growing contest.

THEY'VE GOT a point in Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. In a recent article the topic was the "new longer look" and they brought out the fact that although longer skirts are THE thing, a knee-length bathing suit which was popular when-mother-was-a-girl, is about as glamorous as a rattlesnake.

VILLANOVA College comes thru' with this:

Speaker: Money, my friends, is not everything. We should all realize that it cannot bring us happiness; nor will it win us friends. There is no joy to be had from it. I speak, of course, of Confederate money.

Cracking Knuckles Collapses Conditioned Reflex Mechanism

By KEN SHUTE

• "TODAY, CLASS, I believe we have a most interesting experiment. We shall attempt to illustrate the mechanism of the conditioned reflex. Instead of pairing off into subject and experimenter teams, as you have done in the past, we will just use one Subject this time for the edification of the whole class. I, of course, will perform the entire experiment (the things you'll do to get a Master's degree!). As usual, John Kleffskull will be my assistant. Now are there any volunteers? No? Well, you'll do, lad. (Hold him tighter - Jawn, boy. 'Strap him down if you have to!)

"Now the nature of this experiment is to condition temporary paralysis in the subject to the sound of cracking knuckles. I do believe I detect snickering in the back of the room. However I assure you that there is nothing facetious meant in this at all. (I am pretty good at cracking my knuckles tho!)

"We shall use electric shock to induce the paralysis. At the same time that the current is released, I will start cracking my knuckles. This continuous repetition should form an association in the Subject's mind. Then, later on, we will do away with the shock and see if the sound of my knuckles cracking is alone sufficient to invoke paralysis in S. (Have you got the electrodes fastened to him, Jawn? Good! I guess we can get on then.)

"As you may observe, class, we now have S. in a prone position. (I hope no one saw you rabbit-punch him Jawn, boy.) We'll now apply the current. (Give me a 100, Jawn) Hmmmmmmmm! It seems as though S. is still relaxed. (Give me 500 Jawn, boy.) There! I believe that did it. Notice, class, that all the time I kept cracking my knuckles, S. grew stiffer and stiffer. (You can turn it off now, Jawn.)

"We'll have a break now of five minutes while the lad is coming to; then we'll have another go at it in 15 minutes. . . . All right m'boy you can come out of it now. (He looks awfully still, doesn't he Jawn?) C'mon lad, let's get up now; it wasn't as bad as all that! (He hasn't moved yet. . . . and those eyes. . . . wide open. . . . staring blankly. . . . Jawn, you. . . . you don't think? You do? Ohhhhhhhhh Noooooo! Well, put him with the others. . . . I suppose I'll never get my Master's now!")

Pistol Club Trains Marksmen For Intercollegiate Competition

By MURRAY JENNINGS

• FURTHER PLANS and organization of the newly-formed Pistol Club were formulated in a regular club meeting held October 22. Election of officers headed the activities.

Provisional approval by the Student Life Committee to operate as a recognized club was coupled by the sharpshooters with organizing of competition groups, and enunciating of hopes for engaging in intercollegiate competition early next year. Work was begun toward completion of a schedule for practice appointments.

President Johnny Johnson heads the list of elected officers. Sam Commings operates as coach; Dick Eckerle functions in the vice-president's chair; Dotty Stoval writes notes and cashes notes as secretary-treasurer; Jobe Tickle wields the executive officer's gavel; Dr. Paul W. Bowman officiates as faculty advisor.

Marksmen enthusiasts are proceeding with the present plans of training, organizing, and practicing team groups for local competition. Johnson and Stoval aver, that even the no inter-collegiate schedule has been developed as yet, they plan in the next few months to complete the necessary arrangements.

Training for matches will commence as soon as dates and times for the use of Corcoran Hall rifle range are agreed upon between the 3 gun organizations on campus.

Membership of the organization at the present numbers in the low forties. This composite body of student and faculty men and women reiterates that interested applicants possessing .22 caliber pistols should contact anyone of the club for further information.

At its first regular meeting of this semester, the members of Delphi elected Eugenie Lee as president; Joan Garwood, vice-president; Sally Fort, secretary; Nancy Giglio, treasurer; Elizabeth Roch, social chairman; and Jean Ferguson, publicity director.

Radio Workshop Play Receives Wide Acclaim

• WIDE ACCLAIM was accorded the University Radio Workshop last Monday night by visiting New York playwright-dramatist Clarence Roach when the newly-formed groups first radio production went on the air.

The play, which ran two nights, was an original period drama, produced by the students, entitled "The Shawl". Writer-director Douglas Rideout, English literature student at the University, was applauded by Roach for "excellent writing and unity of dialogue".

Other distinguished guests, including Mr. Omer Henry, President of the Writers League of Washington, Mr. Roy G. Blank and Mr. Martin Steel, National Poetry Society of America, complimented student-producer Don Kraeger on what they termed "intriguing musical adaptation," "excellent timing," and "perfect coordination of so many people."

"The Shawl," playing to an appreciative studio audience which packed Studio A of Lisner Auditorium for both performances, was recorded by sound engineer John LeReche assisted by Jerry Raker. The records will be retained in the Workshop library. The National Poetry Society wants a master recording of the production to distribute to stations in its southwestern radio network for use as a sustaining program on Christmas day.

The play, which was produced as an activity of the Speech Department under the supervision of Professor Edwin Stevens, presented Gene Picciano in the leading role of Lincoln, supported by Evelyn Lipsky and Harriet Hullish alternating in the role of Mrs. Lincoln, and Cynthia Fordyce Leppert cast as the "Veiled Lady."

Walter Robbins, a professional actor formerly with the radio cast of "Henry Aldrich," played Tad Lincoln, and John Johnson portrayed Jason, the man servant. Don Kraeger and McGinnis furnished the sound effects, Ronnie Dowling announced the play, and Warner Schreiner was the narrator.

Rideout sold "The Shawl" last year to the Radio Writers Laboratory of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, a professional script-writers agency. The play is expected to be produced (See RADIO, Page 9)

Foreign Students Hosts To Ghosts At Halloween Fete

• PLAYING HOST to a full house of gay spirits, the International Student Society celebrated Halloween in their new home at 2116 G Street last Thursday.

Traditional Halloween games were played to show the foreign guests the way in which the ancient night of superstition is celebrated in this country.

At the Halloween party the fifty foreign and interested American students who attended played such games as apple dunking and "marshmallow on a string" and heard a traditional ghost story by candlelight. The program was under the direction of Bill Frederick.

President Doris Nahm has announced that the society will present a musical November 9 from 4 to 7 p.m. The program will include songs and dances of different countries and a cello solo by Abby Barnett. Miss Nahm invites all members and those interested in joining the society to attend. Admission is free and refreshments will be served.

The parade included 25 organizational floats and a 50-foot platform van carrying the University Band which played Sousa marches and "The Buff and Blue" alternately over the entire route. Metropolitan police escorted the procession to the stadium where the floats circled the field during the half-time ceremonies when the winning floats were announced and prizes awarded by Fred James, Homecoming co-chairman.

Book Store Pays Money To Pupils For Book Sales

• THE BOOK EXCHANGE Managers have announced that absolutely no receipts will be honored that were not checked before October 15. At the close of business last Tuesday less than a half of the receipts had been redeemed despite the efforts of the Exchange to close out all old accounts before November 1. It is hoped that the bulk of the remaining money will have been paid out by mid-November and that the Exchange will be in a position to hold its previously announced "Bargain Book Sale."

The Book Exchange will be open on Wednesday, November 5, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 4:30 to 6:15 p.m. to facilitate the payment of money due students for the sales of their books during the past registration period. This extra day is in addition to the regular Monday and Tuesday hours. The Exchange announces a change in hours on these two days 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. but will keep the same afternoon hours, namely 4:30 to 5:45 p.m.

Kayser The Inimitable Enlivens Dead History

By MARY ABBE

• FOR ANY ILL-FATED "schmoe" who is not familiar with the name, the ancient history lectures, or the cigar of Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, this is to inform you that he is officially Dean of University Students and professor of European History. Unofficially, he is one of the best-known figures around the University.

"Going into the field of history was largely a matter of accident," the Dean asserts. His fond parents thought he was destined to lecture from the pulpit. However, after deciding against the ministry and law, he became interested in teaching history. Thus, for the past thirty years, Dean Kayser has glamorized the Age of Pericles and the philosophy of Socrates and has pounded it into the thick heads of thousands of students.

As a speaker he is always very much in demand throughout the country. His topic is always the same—"The World Today." In that way he gets by with speaking on anything from starvation in India to the new, long hem-lines. Dean Kayser had H. V. Kaltenborn and his buddies tearing their hair for several years as he branched off into the radio field (plug!) Here, again, his program was "The World Today."

The Dean is a member of the anti-loafer league whose motto is "Relaxation is doing a little more work." His time is absorbed in teaching at the University, reading four daily newspapers, and browsing through his miniature Congressional Library at home, where he has a mere two thousand volumes, all on history!

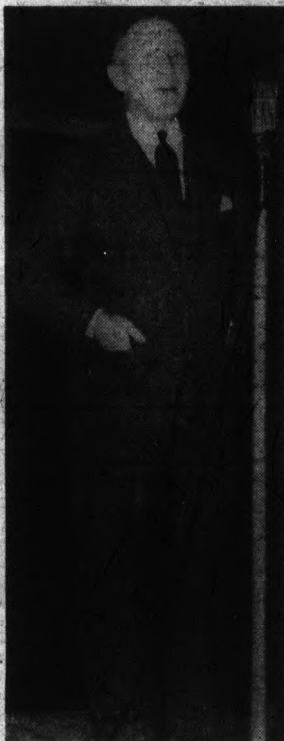

Since summering in Europe is out of the question until conditions improve, Dean Kayser's idea of a vacation is to visit some new place and get busy doing nothing (which probably means reading ninety books on something-or-other-called history).

Dean Kayser is always being asked to "speak here" or "judge there." He should be well prepared to judge the Hatchet's Christmas Cartoon Contest, considering his vast experience with The Saturday Evening Post (History 39 students, please note!) But that goes with the "celebrity status" that the Dean enjoys at the University.

One of his favorite interests is antiques—"because there are so many of them around." Music boxes fascinate him. For a nominal fee, the Dean will give you quite a description of a bird-cage type he has seen.

His classes have tripled and

quadrupled since before the war, and now they pack Lisner Auditorium, where the Dean takes over for a solo performance three times each week. He has very definite ideas about teaching history. The

Pledges Drudge, Performing Duties

By ROBBIE ROBERTSON

• DON'T YOU WISH that you were pledging Tau Epsilon Phi? They have only the one pledge and the elite character has not one duty to perform! While this happy soul is sitting back and taking life easy, the pledges of other fraternities are slowly but most assuredly getting various ailments ranging from rough, red dish-pan hands to housemaids' knees.

The pledges of Theta Delta Chi have to put in at least 50 hours per week of house-work. Won't they make some woman a wonderful wife? Also, shame and degradation befall these TDX pledges if, they so much as breathe an off-color word.

The Tau Kappa Epsilon actives are having their strength put to test by their noble pledges who have challenged them to a football game.

The rest of the frats have been ingenious and are sticking to the usual run-of-the-mill tasks of running errands, answering the phone, attending all meetings, wearing ties, and learning the rules, regulations, and history of their respective fraternities. This year they have also added to the list renovation of the houses, which includes plastering, painting, and all the other things that go along with re-decorating.

Skin and Bones

By KAY SHANAHAN

• THE MED SCHOOL was much set-up Saturday night when Lynn Post walked into the Tri-Fraternity Dance at the Kennedy-Warren laden down with loving cup and the biggest bunch of red roses we've ever seen. Selection of med-senior Larry Post's wife as Homecoming Queen was a triumph for all of us. She was a gorgeous queen. Congratulations, gal!

Typical of the anything-can-happen atmosphere of the medic social life was the impromptu and energetic polka performed by Bob Belton and Chuck Campbell. The country contingent took over for a while with an all-out Virginia Reel. We really should scare-up a caller!

It was really a swell start for the social season. We might suggest that the freshmen get to work on their dance soon. They usually throw one early in November, and we could use more of the same.

Wednesday afternoon's senior medicine lecture was wreathed in clouds of smoke. Dick Holeman was cigar-ing in honor of his daughter, who arrived that morning.

Med student families are increasing by leaps and bounds. A couple of weeks ago Bob Coopeman and Ray Miller joined the proud papa contingent the same day.

Seniors have been scattering to the four winds the past two weeks, taking exams and having interviews for internships. The anxious seat is becoming more so daily, and announcement of our respective fates come November 15 will be a wonderful respite. Imagine there will be much celebration come the day.

Our Sophomore scout phoned us a batch of news past week—bless her soul! We could do with more like her. It seems the Sophs recently got around to electing officers. Mac McKilway (who is another rather recent papa) is the president; Tony de Benedetto, vice-president; and Yvonne Varvarasses, secretary-treasurer.

Two more of the Sophomore boys got married this summer. Stephen Kent and Mark Doran are the latest recruits to the ranks of the benedicts. And several of the Sophomore and Senior boys are counting the weeks and months anticipating heirs. We'll give you the hot dope on these with their arrival.

The girls have been busy, too. AEL, medical sorority, initiated seven and pledged one sophomore girl recently. New initiates are Audrey Connor, Dorothy Halzworth, Mary Helen McConnell, Miriam Seborer, Yvonne Varvarasses and Kay Walters. The pledge is Alice Hamby, transfer student from the University of Cincinnati Medical School.

Well, that's about all for now. Next week we plan to run a long-promised guest column. And we are in the market for more. We're scouting for some enterprising underclassman who might like to pinch-hit for your columnist when she retires via the graduation route, come spring. Any takers? This is our baby and we'd like to see it live on.

● JUST THE OTHER day, Foggy and Bottom left The Hatchet office to take a walk on the campus.

"This is George Washington University," said Foggy.
"Let's stay awhile," replied Bottom.

The biggest social weekend of the fall term is now over and many weary students trudged reluctantly to classes Monday morning with more than school-work on their mind and a clear view-point on life.

Don't you remember that last Thursday evening the festivities started with the football rally? Why, everyone was there, even the neighborhood ruffians! Bandleader Leon Brusloff looked very dapper as he waved his baton through the air while strutting like a peacock in that blue, double-breasted suit of his.

Then Friday night rolled around and the float parade was on. . . . Nancy Cope thought that it was a beautiful sight to behold. . . . Kappa Delta's Cinderella Float walked off with first prize. . . . One could feel that the air was full of gaiety and spirit. The Harem Girls from Zeta Tau Alpha shivering in the cold, brought out the wolf calls.

At the game, school spirit was high as well as a number of students but everyone tried to keep warm with blankets, topcoats, and liquid fire (coffee, of course!).

Vic Campo, KA, is still befuddled, though. He had two sweaters, on in addition to his topcoat as he attempted to ward off the brisk breezes. When Vic wasn't yelling at the top of his lungs, he was drinking gallons of coffee. In spite of his efforts he is now in bed nursing a cold while the Delta Zeta "Mermaids" who defied the cold in cheesecloth are going merrily on their way.

The Homecoming Dance topped the weekend off like whipped cream on a banana-split at Quigley's. . . . The Vets Club did themselves proud with Lynn at the post. . . . Helen O'Leary was bouncing about in her attempts to see that everybody was happy. . . . Dot Pittenger in her civet fur had a gay time with Bob Tull. . . . Chuck Wallack walked around with a balloon all evening, claiming that it was the only thing that loved him. . . . Scotty Garrigan and his expanded jaw. . . . Would you believe that Jack Hiers, Sigma Nu, and Jane Haley, ate Jane's orchard. . . . Oh, what next?

After the dance, Russel Smith entertained at the Shoreham Hotel and many students drifted over to Room 507 for a quick one. . . . There was also Sigma Nu's party after the game for the Homecoming Queen candidates, the social chairmen, and the presidents of the sororities. . . . Martini was there, too. . . . and so were the cops who disbanded the party. . . . but Manny Alvord and Bob Flanders eluded the law by hiding in the basement. . . . "Choc" Lynch lost his pin after six hours to Noblesse Behrens of Wilson Teachers College. . . . Incidentally, the goldfish at the PIKA's Aquabar are now purring back at certain guests.

RINGS ON MY FINGER AND SUCH DEPT.

Pat Tulley, Kappa, got the biggest diamond from her one and only, Crandall Alford, an M.D. who works in Baltimore. . . . Mary Olds is sporting a mysterious Phi Sig frat pin but won't reveal who the owner is. . . . June Eisenburg, DG, at the dance—but not with Jerry Raker. . . . Bob Greenwald and Charlie Samson are to be married Thanksgiving Day in Richmond, Virginia. Congratulations, Bob and Charlie! . . . Congratulations go also to Eileen Shanahan Waits, one time editor of The Hatchet who is now the happy mother of a baby girl born November 2. Kay Shanahan, on staff now and the aunt, is just as proud. . . . Manny Alvord and Bob Flanders became engaged this week.

Didja know that Jim Hudson and Dot Sutherland ate 18 hamburgers after the game together. . . . and we thought the President asked for a food conservation. . . . Nora Dubin is transporting her relatives here for her graduation but can't get enough tickets. . . . Would you believe the only femme fatal who would tell me her honest weight was Betty Swanson of Strong Hall who tips the scales at 122.

Listen fellows, why not date some of the ultra, ultra girls who are here on campus? You know that you can go to a show sponsored by the Student Council for 15c and up to Bradley's for a beer or over to "Quig's" for a coke. They honestly don't expect the guys to feed them on caviar and champagne or give them orchids. Just a swell evening will sure help a lot to lighten the burden of studying. Don't forget the old saying that variety is the spice of life!

Variously yours,
Miss Foggy and Mr. Bottom.

French Club Project Is Packages For France

● AS ITS PROJECT for the year, the Advanced French Club has decided to send packages to various French people, Sally Dessez, President of the organization, announces.

At its meeting in Lisner Library last Wednesday, Paul Gekker volunteered to get the necessary information and make a report at the next meeting on sending packages to France. The next meeting of the club is scheduled for Wednesday, November 12, at 8 p. m.

"France Today" was the subject of a talk given by Professor Alan T. Deibert of the Romance Language Department at the meeting. Professor Deibert, who returned a month ago from a visit to France, was honored recently for having completed 25 years on the University faculty.

Also present at the meeting was Dr. George Henning, Professor Emeritus.

Anyone interested in this relief work for France or in the club in general can contact Sally Dessez at WO 1095.

Kayser

Dean, realizing that there's nothing quite as dead as a lot of corpses, slaps plenty of grease-paint and color on to his subjects, so that they don't seem quite as dead as they are. And he gets it across!

Aside from detailed accounts of wrapping mummies, his listeners are treated to his subtle, humorous lectures on, say, Cleopatra—ahem—(that's all, brother, the rest is an old story!)

The Dean often waxes philosophical about his History 39 class. The thought strikes him occasionally that, lo and behold, here are the sons and daughters of the former "schmöes" whom he has tried to enlighten. Worst of all, they never seem to grow up. It gets to be a sort of routine. "Here they come, there they go, but I go on forever." And here's hoping that the Kayser tradition will go on—forever.

● A. S. M. E., A. I. E. E., A. S. C. E., of the Engineers Council, will meet in Government 101, 102, and 201 tomorrow night at 8:30, announced Council president Benjamin Sorin.

Again this Christmas, Parker "51" is the world's most-wanted gift pen. In fact, seniors at 20 great universities voted Parker more-wanted than the next three makes of pens combined! All in all, 77 surveys in 29 countries confirm this preference. • Incomparable in its styling and performance—the "51" makes all writing a pleasure. So perfectly balanced—so responsive—so smooth gliding. And only the "51" is designed for satisfactory use with remarkable new Parker Superchrome—the super-brilliant, super-permanent ink that dries as it writes! • Choice of custom points to suit your individual style of handwriting. . . . and smart gift colors. $12.50; $15.00. WAKE UP, INDEPENDENTS!

... and think about these figures: Last year 11,131 students were enrolled; yet only about 1,000 voted in the class elections.

A small vote can have but one result: The candidates of the closely-knit, well-disciplined organizations are elected, and the class officers serve the interests of these groups instead of the majority of the students.

We are neither pro-Greek nor anti-Greek, but we feel that, since we outnumber the Greeks almost ten to one, the independents should be more equitably represented in the class offices and on the Student Council.

Many of you will ask, "Why should I vote? There have been practically no class activities in the past; so it makes no difference who's elected."

The classes have been inactive because they have been headed by people with their heads in the organizational clouds. Their affiliations did not allow them to find out what the majority—the independent majority—wanted.

We are independent students. We think our active participation in the Independent Students' Association and other campus activities has enabled us to find out what you—the majority of the students—the independent students—want your classes to be, and, if elected, we shall serve you—the majority—the independents.

However, we can do all this only if you elect us; only you

It has been brought to our attention that Chet Burns, a candidate for the presidency of the Senior Class in the current elections, has been falsely representing his political affiliations. Chet Burns is NOT, as claimed, an independent, but an active member of Sigma Nu fraternity, backed in this election by the Greek political group controlled by his fraternity. Independents—don't be misled by Burns' fond overtures; his com-

As Thousands Cheered

Quite a few wept . . .

By SKIP FOSTER

TO THE TUNE OF "Waltz Me Around Again Willie", a "spirited" Colonial eleven took its sixth pummeling of the year as V. P. I. backfield men waved hello to friends and relatives while hurtling through to the goal line.

Well, that's about the way the ball bounces. One football team in the country has to be the testing-ground for the strong up-and-coming teams this year, and I guess we're "IT!"

But don't worry kiddies, next year there's even going to be a better show. . . There's Duke, Virginia, Wake Forest, Maryland, Kansas, Miami, maybe William and Mary, and the only "breather" on the schedule is Georgetown. Ho hum . . . why didn't someone try scheduling Notre Dame or Michigan.

THE FUNNY THING about the whole set-up is the fact that everyone is asking the same question . . . Who is going to coach next year's team? You can't blame Skip Stahley if he resigns. Training table, practice field, varsity house, football players, we need these necessities NOW! And why aren't we getting them? 'Beats me . . . It seems like the University is trying to hold a great big champagne party on beer . . .

One simply cannot go on lauding the superhuman effort of our injury-riddled squad. Those boys need help pretty badly, and the only way to help them is by going out and getting more men.

Last Spring, Coach Stahley had about twenty-five candidates for the football team that were refused admission to our University because of minor academic deficiencies. Facts and figures now show that a great many of these men turned down are playing first-string ball in other schools in the country. In fact, there are a few that played AGAINST US this year. Is this the way in which we are going to face our opponents next year?

I SUGGEST THAT we adopt a policy whereby we can accept candidates, chosen by the football coach, by amending admission requirements to suit the individual case. If a great many schools throughout the country require their ball players to maintain a "D" average in season, who are we to be different?

Beside carrying a full academic schedule, the ball-players in this school put about 40 hours a week into football . . . who's kidding who? A mighty Wake Forest squad is built on an enrollment of 1400, we have 14,000. Can we be smug enough to say that we turn out better individuals than Michigan or Illinois?

If the University is sincere enough in wanting to have a "big-league" football team that can take on the teams we are scheduling, something will have to be done. We can build a team to beat the squads we are going to encounter. I think the students and alumni (See FOSTER, Page 16)

Blue Devils, Generals Top Standings

BOTH THE DUKE Blue Devils and the Washington and Lee Generals retained their first place tie this week since neither team's defeat last Saturday came at the hands of a Southern Conference Rival.

Georgia Tech's George Brodnax made a diving catch in the end zone for the only score in contest when the Yellow Jackets defeated Duke 7-0, and Army smothered the Generals 65-13.

Three games were played, with only the Wake Forest-William and Mary tilt having any bearing on the standings.

In this game between the W. & M. Indians and the Deamon Deacons, fullback Jack Cloud ran 65 yards for one score to highlight a 21-0 victory for the Indians. The win enabled the William and Mary team to move into undisputed possession of third place.

In the other two games, Davidson scored its first points of the season in tying V.M.I. 14-14, while V.P.I. routed the Colonials 42-6 for its second conference win.

Colonial Mentor Gears Squad In Preparation For Big Season

By GERRY LESSUK

THE FIRST STEP in the process of building a basketball machine, powerful enough to capture the Southern Conference crown has been completed.

That step involved selecting and eliminating, a tedious and touchy job for Coach Arthur "Otis" Zahn who wants to make sure that he holds on to all available talent.

As a group the basketballers are speedy and aggressive, and, at times, their passing game, in an attempt to penetrate the defense set up by the opposition, has been brilliant.

The wizardry displayed by such keen ball handlers as Bill Cantwell, Len Small and Gene Witkin in moving the ball down the court will serve in making the quintet a dangerous and high scoring aggregation.

The crux of the strategy on defense has been delegated to man for man play, tight and close. Not only has their been an emphasis on man for man responsibility, but close cooperation among the men has also been stressed.

Coach Zahn remarked that saddling your opponent on the defense is desired but his gripe is directed against those who do it so strenuously that they forget about the action going on about them.

A definite pattern for the offense has been set up, stressing a deliberate attack. One factor that detracted from the effectiveness of last year's team was their inability to pace themselves. This year, with a deliberate and calculated play making offense in operation, a steadier game is being hoped for by the team's mentor.

The forwards have been instructed to hang onto the outside of the court as long as possible. This (See BASKETBALL, Page 15)

Buff Upset Yale, Navy At Boston

Fight Uphill Battle After Bad Winds Cause Mishaps

CAPTURING FOURTH place in National Intercollegiate competition, the newly established University Sailing Team scored over such powerhouses as Yale, Coast Guard, Navy, Kings Point, and Tufts (last year's winner), in the Irvin F. Schell Trophy Regatta, held in the Charles River Basin off Boston, last Saturday and Sunday.

Beaten by Brown, M. I. T., and Harvard, Buff skippers Eric Nordholm, Jack Smith and Pat Granger with Bill Dodge filling crew position fought an uphill battle after "hacking" in the early part of the series.

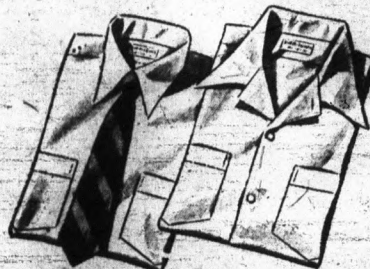

Playing its usually freakish tricks, the Charles River Basin displayed a bewildering succession of changes in wind and weather. Cold and strong early in the Saturday races, it became light and shifty on Sunday.

It was pitch dark when they finished the fourteenth race with the Colonials only four points ahead of Yale and ten points behind the leading M. I. T. team. The scores spread in the latter half of the series with Brown overtaking M. I. T., and with the sailors losing Harvard but gaining tremendously over Yale.

Taking only two firsts in the series, skippers Smith and Nordholm developed leads that stuck in the fourteenth and twenty-third races. Although they were often in the lead, the unpredictable winds died as quickly as they arose would leave the Colonials flat.

Although they are only in the second year of existence, the team had qualified for these finals twice. By taking second in the summer championships, conquering Kings Point and winning the Navy Hexagonal, the Colonial skippers have put themselves in the forefront of intercollegiate yacht racing.

Intramural Basketball Soon to Get Underway

Deadline Set Back Allowing For More Independent Teams

• DUE TO THE overwhelming demand for entries in this season's Intramural Basketball Tournament, Joe Krupa, Director of Intramural athletics, announced that the deadline for entrance has been extended to this Friday afternoon, November 7.

Judging by the number of teams already entered, at least three independent basketball leagues are anticipated with games slated for almost every night in the gym. Fifty-two teams participated in intramural basketball last year to register the court play as the largest activity of the extra-curricular sports program in the University.

There is no restriction on team entrants other than requirement that all participants be registered in school. Doctors, lawyers, engineers, and any other group are urged to enter five men squads with a few substitutes for breathers. Officials, scorers, and basketballs will be furnished.

Opening games will be scheduled for this coming Monday night in the gym to open the first half of the season. Independents' basketball season is divided into two sections in coordination with the semesters, the first ending just before Christmas.

Every night this week the University gym will be open for practice sessions by the newly formed squads or for any other sport sponsored by the Intramural Department. Managers should contact the department for reservation of space in the gym. Only uniform requirements are basketball or tennis shoes. Fraternity teams will open their two league, sixteen game schedule shortly after Christmas and will finish the play-off with the Independent winner in early spring.

Hoya Sailors Beat Colonials, 90-79, In Informal Meet

• GEORGETOWN'S Sailors triumphed over the University sailors' second team in an informal meet held off Fulton's Dock last Saturday afternoon. The final score was 90-79 in favor of the Hoyas.

Gray skies and tricky winds played havoc with the Colonial helmsmen and they lost approximately 15 points on three disqualifications.

They were disqualified twice in the first race for breaking the "right of way" rule, and were disqualified once in the second race when one boat hit a boundary marker.

High scorer for the afternoon was Colonials' Arch Harrison who racked up 27 points. There was a tie for second high between Rockowitz of the Buff team and Ledden of the Hoyas with 23 points apiece.

A blow to the Colonial's scoring chances came before the races started when highly touted Peg Stevens was tossed into the icy waters of the Washington Channel when her boat overturned.

Foilsmen To Meet To Organize Club

• FENCERS, prospective and veteran, are requested to attend a meeting to be held in the University gym tomorrow night at 8 p.m., the purpose of which will be to organize a fencing club.

Mr. Shelby Currie, the instructor, will be ready to hold classes for beginners who are interested in starting immediately after the short business meeting is held. Gym shoes and slacks are necessary. All other equipment will be provided.

Dodgers, Newman Club In Playoff; Phi Alpha, Theta-Delts Lead Greeks

By JOE COOKSON

• INDEPENDENT LEAGUE play-off to determine the Independent football winner for this season is slated for the ellipse at 11:00 a.m., Sunday Morning, November 16, with the Newman Club meeting the Dodgers.

These two league winners finished the regular season without defeat last Sunday as both clubs received victories by forfeitures.

Fraternity leagues are in a maze of ties with no undefeated teams and only three more weeks of competition remaining before the play-off between league winners.

Almost anything can happen during these final weeks as league A finds five teams with ties hampering their fixed position in the standings, and league B has five clubs with three wins and one loss apiece for first place ratings.

Prior to last Sunday's game, each Greek league had an undefeated, untied squad. This week there are none. The Argonauts failed to break their tie for the third consecutive week as they held the previously all-victorious Phi Alpha team to a scoreless tie in league B play.

Theta Delta Chi broke up the Kappa Alpha's two season winning streak by scoring in the first half to win by a 7-0 score. Praise-worthy pass plays from "Sleepy" Thompson to Phil Young scored both the touchdowns and the extra point for the winning League A club.

Fifty Students Attend First Film Showing

• FILMS OF THE Colonial-Wake Forest game, held October 18 at Griffith Stadium, were shown in Lisner Auditorium last Thursday by Coach Skip Stahley to approximately 50 students.

These films, the first in a series of football pictures to be presented each week by Stahley, covered the first half of the Demon Deacons-Buff fight and were in technicolor.

Stahley pointed out highlights of play and told many stories about the gridiron.

After the presentation, he answered many questions from the audience pertaining to the game itself as well as many other queries concerning football fact.

On Thursday, November 5, at 12:10 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium, films will be shown of the Colonial-Miami contest played in Miami. All students are welcome to attend.

All persons in the audience had

Shorts ... On Girls

By SHIRLEY B. SMITH and LEUVENIA FEE

Last Monday marked the first meeting of the Freshman Advisory Committee in physical education with two representatives from each freshman fundamentals class meeting Miss Ruth Atwell, Executive Officer of the Women's Physical Education Department, to discuss the possibilities of having a Sports Day with the freshmen of nearby colleges.

The plan has many good potentialities, and if such a sports day is worked out it will mean increased participation in inter-school activities for freshmen. As things now stand, unless a newcomer exhibits superior performance, she is passed over in favor of veteran players. Many good athletes are never brought to light because of this, and a Freshman Sports Day such as is being planned would spotlight these girls and increase enthusiasm in the entire freshman class.

Sailing Club Gets Under Way

Miss Katherine Prentiss has announced an organizational meeting for all girls who sail or are interested in learning to sail. The meeting will be held tomorrow, November 5, in room 102 of building D. Pat Grainger, member of the varsity sailing team, will manage the team.

At present it is not known whether the club will be a separate organization or affiliated with the University Sailing Association. These and other details will be worked out in the meeting Wednesday. If you plan to join the club, either now or later, attend this meeting and help them set their sails.

Hockey Selection

The first scrimmage for the selection of the team to travel to Trinity College will be made next week. The tempo of the class practices has picked up markedly with every position being hard sought after. We notice that the upperclassmen have suddenly become aware that seniority isn't enough to earn a berth on the first string this year.

Neither of your columnists have ever seen such an outstanding crop of freshman and sophomore players. A few on our list of potential stars would include Winnie McGowan, Marjorie Baker, Anne Bradshaw, and that master strategist Mary Lynn Mitchell, transfer student from Madison College.

Miss Atwell Delegate To Conference

The Willard Hotel plays host from October 31 thru November 2 to the Second National Conference on International Educational Reconstruction. The University will be represented by Miss Ruth H. Atwell.

Rifle Team Meets To Reorganize

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS interested in trying out for the varsity rifle team are urged to attend the first meeting of the squad this Friday, November 7, 1 p.m. in Gov. 300.

After a successful 1946-47 season in which the rifle team placed seventh in National Intercollegiate competition, Coach Frank Parsons is hoping for a large turnout this year to better last year's record.

Ping Pong Clashes Continue On Friday

HOMEcoming GAME forced the postponement of last Friday's inter-fraternity ping pong play. This Friday a double-header arrangement is slated with each fraternity team playing two matches during the evening in the University gym.

Eight tables will be set up in the gym with four matches from each league being held simultaneously.

Opening singles matches will begin at 8 p.m. and will continue until the sixteen team contests are completed.

device leaves the center of the court wide open, giving those men who move in for cuts a lot of room to operate in. It also serves to keep the opposing players from tangling with the man who is cutting in to take a pass.

Another point in the offensive strategy is the installation of a pivot man in the opponent's fore court. His task requires the setting up of passes for men that are cutting toward the basket or pivoting himself into position for a shot.

DAFFY DEFINITIONS

Here's a column inspired by one of man's most fundamental motivations—his primitive urge to make a buck. And why not?—a buck's a buck. Get daffy, chums.

Synonym—the word you use when you can't spell the word you want.

Pedestrian—a married man who owns a car.

Hangover—the penalty for switching from Pepsi-Cola.

Snoring—sheet music.

You've really got us to the wall when we'll pay a buck apiece for these. But that's the deal. $1 each for those we buy.

GOOD DEAL ANNEX

Sharpen up those gags, gagsters! At the end of the year (if we haven't laughed ourselves to death) we're going to pick the one best item we've bought and award it a fat extra

$100.00

Little Moron Corner

Murgatroyd, our massive moron, was observed the other afternoon working out with the girls' archery team. Somewhat unconventionally, however—instead of using bow and arrow, Murgatroyd was drawing a bead on the target with a bottle of Pepsi-Cola. When asked "Why?" by our informant, who should have known better—"Dummmmm," responded Murgatroyd brightly, "because Pepsi-Cola hits the spot, stupid!"

$2, legal tender, for any of these we buy. Brother, inflation is really here!

HE-SHE GAGS

Know a He-She gag? If you think it's funny, send it in. If we think it's funny, we'll buy it—for three bucks. We'll even print it. Sheer altruism. Take ten—and see if you don't come up with something sharper than these soggy specimens:

She: Why don't you put out that light and come sit here beside me?

He: It's the best offer I've had today—but I'd rather have a Pepsi.

He: Darling, is there nothing I can do to make you care?

She: D. D. T.

He: D. D. T.?

She: Yeah—drop dead twice!

She: Right now I'm interested in something tall, dark and handsome.

He: Gosh! Me?

She: No, silly—Pepsi-Cola!

Yep, we pay three bucks apiece for any of these we print. You never had it so good.

Get Funny ... Win Money ... Write a Title

What's the right caption? We don't know. You tell us. For the line we buy we'll ante $5. Or send in a cartoon idea of your own. $10 for just the idea ... $15 if you draw it ... if we buy it.

Namur And Kain Present Lectures To Gym Classes

AS A PART of the regular fundamentals of the physical education course, the Physical Education Department is bringing two well-known speakers to lecture to University girls.

On November 5 Irene Case Namur, who is director of Nutritional Biochemistry for the Women's Hospital Reserve Corps, will speak on "Minerals and Your Vitality."

On November 12 Ida Jean Kain will discuss "Body Mechanics and Your Efficiency" in Lisner Auditorium. Miss Kain is the newspaper columnist who writes a daily health and beauty feature for the Washington Post. Both of these lectures are open to interested students.

have had it just about up to their ears after last Friday night's fiasco.

It isn't fair to the men who are playing their hearts out on the team; it isn't fair to the athletic department that seems to be existing on promises; and it isn't fair to the student going to school six days a week who looks forward to athletic activities for the necessary diversion that comes with college life.
